[L'Indispensable and Le Redacteur complain grievously of having been quizzed by forged telegraphic dispatches, importing pretended victories, the defeat of Suwarrow, &c. &c. The former remarks thus, under date of October 14.]

It is now said, that the pretended telegraphical transmissions by which our credulity has been sported with these four days, are nothing but the roguish tricks of Bailleul and of Peultier. Since the 4th inst. darkness and fogs have not permitted the telegraphs on the line of Strasburg to transmit any thing to Paris.

Suwarrow will laugh in his sleeve, on reading, if he should read them, those French journals, which have announced with so much precision his defeat and his capture. Indeed, who could have doubted of it, from the positive tone of those foolish malignants. We know that there have been bets laid on the occasion. Would it not be right that the lying authors of this news should pay the expences it has cost?

Yesterday arrived a courier from Switzerland. No news, is good news.

The Russians caused themselves to be cut in pieces rather than surrender, says a Journal, which immediately after adds, that we have taken 3000 of them.

Lavater was assassinated in the streets of Zurich by French hussars.

The road from Paris to Brest is blocked by the Chouans, who have taken Martigny, situated between Laval and Mayenne, which has given occasion to the timorous and foolish to say, that Mayenne and Laval were in the power of the Chouans.

The Chouans attacked the city of Angers, on the 9th, at five in the evening, in three different quarters, by the barrier of St Lazare, by the fauxbourg of St. George, and by the bridge Brionneau. Every where they were repulsed. But they rise with renewed force from their disasters.

We complain of the wind! The English have more cause.

If Brest and Ancona have been freed from blockade, it is to the wind we owe it. If the wind would rout the Jacobins, we should owe it great gratitude.

Championet is opposite to gen. Belleparte, towards Pignerol: those two hostile generals are each at the head of 12,000 men, and were prepared for combat.

COUNCIL OF ANCIENTS.

The president announced the order of the day, upon the resolution which declares a traitor to his country whoever shall insert in treaties of peace, conditions outraging the constitution of the 3d year, and the integrity of the French territory, as recognized by the constitutional act.

Lanjuinais suggested, that as the discourses which would be pronounced, whether pro or contra, would encroach upon the diplomacy, it would be expedient that the report and the discussion should be read in secret committee.

Philip thought, on the contrary, that a secret discussion would alarm the united departments, and give room for misrepresentation to calumniate the intentions of the council. He demanded that the report be public.

The council coincided in this opinion, and Cornet made report.

He demands its rejection, as involving more heavy inconveniencies than it remedies, by seeking to compose the inhabitants of the united departments: in fact, says he, does it not give room to evil dispositions to say, that we wish to render the war interminable? We wish, without doubt, for peace, but we wish for it to be glorious, and victory will give us that.—The resolution will add nothing then to the guarantee of the united: and what greater guarantee could we give them than those efforts which we are every day making to ward off from them vengeances?

In the second place, it would go to attaint the attributes of the constituted authorities to suppose that others than the directory could enter into negociation for peace: It is unconstitutional in as much as it leads to alter many articles of the social compact: it is unjust, in that it punishes with death a simple proposition as as a concluded thing.

What idea will your constituents have of you, if, after having sworn at the festival of the republic, to defend the constitution, you give to them as a guarantee on your part the menace of capital punishment?

In fine, added the reporter, the committee has found the resolution useless, anterior laws having provided for it; it finds it moreover, dangerous; it might have a fatal influence upon our exterior relations, in thackling overtures which may have the most happy results.

The council ordered printing and adjournment.

ARAU, OCTOBER 2.

Yesterday there was an affair at Deudelsingen, in which the French have again made 4000 prisoners. We are ignorant of the details.

BERNE, OCTOBER 5.

The general Thurreau has been obliged to make his retreat; he has returned into the Valais, and has established his headquarters at Borgue. It appears that he had carried Gravellona, but that a superior force had compelled him to quit a country which was only tenable by the success of the army of the Alps.

It is most sure that Suwarrow is in the canton of Waldstetton; he was on the 1st, at Altdorf; he embraced the subprefect of that quarter, not knowing that he was a public functionary. On the 3d general Lecourbe entered Altdorf.

PARIS, OCTOBER 13.

The telegraphic news of the defeat of 10,000 Russians by Massena, is not confirmed. It was brought up in the Spy, edited by Bailleul.

We wait with most lively impatience the result and details of the affair between Suwarrow and Massena. Prince Charles in spite of all his diligence, will hardly have been able to arrive before the discussion; and every thing makes us presume that the Russians have been beaten, as the telegraphic dispatch yesterday announced.

It is said that Paul I. has ordained a levy of 85,000 men in that part of Poland which fell to Catherine his mother. Every proprietor is held to furnish a certain number of men, in proportion to the extent of his domains.

BATAVIAN ARMY.

Brune, commander in chief, to the minister of war.

Head quarters, at Beverwyck, 14th Vendemaire, October 6.

I was confident that our position in the rear, would have decoyed the enemy into false measures. The battle of Kahrkam has undeceived them. We fought to day from 7 in the morning till 8 at night. The enemy was repulsed, and pursued as far as Egmont. Eleven pieces of cannon, 1500 Russians and English prisoners, are the fruits of this victory. Generals Gouvion, Rostolland, Vandamme, Boohornme, Aubree, Simoa, Malker and Durette, exhibited such talents, as decided the fate of the day. I'll soon send you a list of those brave men who distinguished themselves.

I salute you, republican,
BRUNE.

P. S. Lord Chatham, brother to Mr. Pitt, is wounded in the neck. The general killed at the battle of Bergen, is not Mr. Knox, but the Russian lieut. general Gerelplow, who commanded the expedition under gen. Hermann.

The general of Brigade, to citizen Dubois Crance, Minister of war.

Head quarters, at Beverwyck, 14th Vendemaire, 6th Oct.

The enemy attacked our lines this morning at 6 o'clock. The battle was indecisive during most of the day. At 3 o'clock, the commander in chief, Brune, sallied forth at the head of his battalion, which measure decided the victory. 11 pieces of cannon, and 1500 English and Russian prisoners, a great number of slain, principally Russians, with a great number of wounded, are the trophies of this victory. During 8 hours, langrage and balls thundered amidst our line.

I salute you with respect,
ROSTOLLAND.

EXECUTIVE DIRECTORY.

Message to the councils of ancients and five hundred, 18th Vendemaire, 8th year.

Victory has returned to her fidelity.—She has again embraced the standards of the republic.

In Egypt, Buonaparte has displayed prodigies of valor, 18,000 men, who composed the army of the enemy, have been all either slain or taken

In Batavia, Brune, has defeated the Russians and the English. The French army displayed the most heroic courage against an enemy of far superior force. The Anglo Russians had a great number slain, and we took from them 11 pieces of cannon, and 1500 prisoners.

In Switzerland, the republicans have acquired additional glory. In a telegraphical message from Massena, dated yesterday, he says: I have completely defeated Suwarrow. His army is in full flight. A message received yesterday, states as follows: The Russian army has lost six thousand men, and a great number of standards and pieces of cannon. Suwarrow has retreated into the country of the Grisons, ans is skulking in the mountains.

The losses of the republicans on these several occasions, are very trifling; which we attribute to that heroic enthusiasm so peculiar to French republican armies.

LONDON GAZETTE EXTRA.
OCTOBER 14.

Head Quarters, Alkmaar, October 7, 1799,

SIR,

The enemy, after the action of the 2d, having taken up the position between Beverwyck and Wyck-op-Zee, I determined to endeavor to force him thence before he had an opportunity of strengthening by works the short and very defensible line which he occupied, and to oblige him still further to retire before he could be joined by the reinforcements, which, I had information, were upon their march.

Preparatory, therefore, to a general forward movement, I ordered the advanced posts which the army took up on the 3d inst. in front of this place, of Egmont-op-te Hoof and Egmont-op-Zee, to be pushed forward, which operation took place yesterday morning. At first little opposition were shewn, and we succeeded in taking possession of the villages of Schermerhoorn, Acher, Sloot, Limmen, Bacum, and of a position on the Sand Hills near Wyck op Zee: the column of Russian troops under the command of Major General D'Essen, in endeavouring to gain a height in front of their intended advanced post at Bacum (which was material to the security of that point), was vigorously opposed, and afterwards attacked by a strong body of the enemy, which obliged Gen. Sir Ralph Abercromby to move up in support with the reserve of his corps.

The enemy on their part advanced their whole force; the action became general along the whole line from Limmen to the sea, and was maintained with great obstinacy on both sides until night, when the enemy retired, leaving us masters of the field of battle. The conflict however has, I am concerned to state, been as severe, and has been attended with as serious a loss (in proportion to the numbers engaged), as any of those which have been fought by the brave troops composing this army since their arrival in Holland. The gallantry they displayed, and the perseverance with which they supported the fatigues of this day, rival their former exertions.

The Corps engaged were:
Major-General D'Oyley's Brigade of Guards.
Major-General Burrard's ditto.
Major-General Earl of Chatham's Brigade.
Major-General Coote's ditto.
Major-General the Earl of Cavan's Brigade, commanded by Major General Hutchinson.
The Reserve under the command of Colonel M'Donald.
Part of the 7th and 12th Light Dragoons,
And Seven Battalions of Russians.

To gen. Sir Ralph Abercrombie, and the other general officers in command of the brigades before mentioned, as also to col. Mac Donald, my warmest acknowledgments are due, for their spirited and judicious exertions during this affair: nor ought I to omit the praise due to colonel Clephane, commanding four companies of the 3d, and one of the Coldstream regiments of guards, who, by a spirited charge drove two battalions of the enemy from the post of Archer Sloot, making 200 prisoners. I have sincerely to regret, that in the course of the action Major General Hutchinson received a musket shot wound in the thigh, which, however, is not serious.

I have not yet received any reports of the killed and wounded, but I am apprehentive that the number of British is not less than 500, and that the loss of the Russian troops, as far as I can understand, amounts to 1200 men. I shall, as early as circumstances possibly admit, transmit particular returns.

The loss of the enemy upon this occasion has been very great; and, in addition to their killed and wounded, 500 prisoners fell into our hands.

I am, &c.
FREDERICK.

The Right Hon. Henry Dundas,
&c. &c. &c.

Head qurters, Schagen Brug,
October 9, 1799.

SIR,

I have already acquainted you with the result of the action of the 6th instant, which terminated successfully to the allied arms, and at the same time pointed out the necessity of the movement which produced this affair.

From the prisoners taken upon the 6th inst. I learnt the certainty of the enemy having been reinforced since the action of the 2d by two demi brigades, amounting to about 6000 infantry, and of their having strengthened the position of Beverwyck, and fortified strongly in the rear of it, points which it would still be necessary to carry before Haarlem could be attacked.

It ought also to be stated, that the enemy had retired a large force upon Purmerind, in an almost inaccessible position, covered by an inundated country, and the debouches from which were strongly fortified, and in the hands of the enemy; and further, that as our army advanced, this corps was placed in our rear.

But such obstacles would have been overcome, had not the state of the weather, the ruined condition of the roads, and total want of the necessary supplies arising from the above causes, presented difficulties which required the most serious consideration.

Having maturely weighed the circumstances in which the army was thus placed, and having felt it my duty on a point of so much importance to consult with General Sir Ralph Abercromby and the Lieutenant Generals of this army, I could not but consider, and their opinion was unanimous on the subject, that it would be for the benefit of the general cause to withdraw the troops from their advanced position, in order to wait His Majesty's further instructions.

I must request you will again represent to His Majesty the distinguished conduct of his army; which, whilst acting under the pressure of uncommon difficulties, never for a moment ceased to be actuated by the noblest feelings for the success of the public cause, and the honour of the British arms.

As there are many points resulting from our present situation upon which you may require particular information, and such details as cannot be brought within the compass of a letter, I have thought it necessary to charge my Secretary Colonel Brownrigg with this dispatch, who will be able to explain fully all matters relating to this army.

I transmit a return of killed, wounded and missing, of His Majesty's and the Russian troops in the action of the 6th inst; I most heartily lament that it has equa been so serious, and that so many brave and valuable men have fallen.—I am yours, &c.

FREDERICK.

Right Hon. Henry Dundas.

From the Morning Post.

LONDON, OCTOBER 18.

An officer arrived in Town yesterday from Switzerland, with dispathes containing new and more correct accounts of the events which took place in Switzerland in the latter days of September, excepting only those which relate to Marshal Suwarrow, and reflecting which we have yet no positive information. It appears, that the defeat of the Russians, commanded by gen Korsakow, is to be attributed first to their being surprized, and in the next place to their not having been officered with all the abilities which circumstances required. They defended themselves for a long time with the greatest courage, repulsed the French several times with fixed bayonet, killed a great number of them; and yielded at last to superiority of numbers. Their loss was not nearly so considerable as the French papers have asserted it to be. The republicans having in consequence of their victory, advanced beyond the Thur, took possession of the City of Constance, but were driven from it with great slaughter on the same evening, by the Imperialists. This important circumstance proves that the defeat experienced by the Russians, far from having produced a total overthrow as has been asserted, left them yet in a condition to remain as the corps of an army on the left Bank of the Rhine, and to defend the ground foot by foot. We have the satisfaction to think, that they will henceforth be able to do this with more facility, since we have learned that the archduke Charles had arrived at Schaffhausen on the 2d with 26,000 men, and that the army of Conde, consisting of about 6000, was on the same day at Stockach. These forces joined to the Bavarians and to the Corps of gen. Korsakow, are, it must be agreed, more than sufficient to secure that part of Germany from all danger. We rejoice at seeing the conjectures which we have from the first instant formed respecting the probable consequence of the victory of Massena thus confirmed.

From the Morning Chronicle,
An Opposition Paper.

OCTOBER 19.

The Hamburgh Mail due on Sunday last, arrived yesterday; that of Wednesday has not yet been received. The letters from the Continent contain a variety of details respecting the bloody battles fought at Zurich on the 25th and 26 ult. The conteil appears to have been maintained with great obstinacy by the Austrians and Russians, and the loss on both sides were very considerable. The accounts from the scene of action are mostly vague reports, taken up during the engagement, or so soon after its termination, that they afford little means of ascertaining either the extent or the actual loss which the Allies had sustained, or the consequences by which their defeat was likely to be followed.

OCTOBER 21.

We last night received by express the Paris Journals in regular series up to the 16th inst. inclusive. They announced to the French people the most important triumphs in every quarter where their armies have been engaged. Not merely in Holland and in Switzerland have the troops of the Republic been successful, but in Egypt we find the rumour confirmed of the Turks being totally overthrown at Aboukir, and Buonaparte himself, so often destroyed, is actually returned to France with Berthier, and his other principle officers, leaving his army, as they assert, in the most favourable position. The army of the Rhine has resumed its operations, and Frankfort has yielded to its summons. The defeat of Suwarrow, though the first notice of it was a fabrication, has been most signal, and Massena avers that in all their actions from the 25th September, to the 8th instant, the Russians and Austrians amounted to 30,000 men. We find in one paper of the latest date a paragraph from Straiburg, to the following effect, "A Telegraphic dispatch from Basle arrived here this evening, (the 13th October) Massena has beaten Prince Charles—To-morrow, the details." This is not confirmed, however, in the Moniteur, or announced officially.—It is not likely then to be true, though it is to be feared that Prince Charles returns to Switzerland too late to save even the wreck of the Russian army.

From the Courier.

OCTOBER 22.

A messenger arrived yesterday from the duke of York, and dispatches, we understand, were brought this morning by the Hornet sloop, which arrived at Deal yesterday evening, with more wounded officers—The army retains its position, and no attack has been made upon it—General Don, who was sent with a flag of truce and a commission from the duke of York, and who was stated in the French papers to have been arrested, returned on the 15th with an answer, which has not yet transpired.

From the Morning Chronicle.

OCTOBER 23.

The tenor of the dispatches brought by the Messenger, which arrived on Monday from the Texel, transpired yesterday—A convention took place on the 16th instant, between his royal highness the duke of York, and general Brune, by which an armistice for fourteen days was agreed on, upon terms which have been differently stated—By one account it is said to be agreed by the duke of York, that in order to save the effusion of human blood, 8800 of the French prisoners now in this country, together with all the prisoners which were made by the allied armies in Holland shall be delivered up to the French and Dutch, provided that no opposition shall be given to the evacuation of Helder Point—Another account states the price to be only 5000 men, and another says that the French demand the restoration of the Dutch ships—We do not give either of these reports as genuine—They are probably no more than the conjectures of the public on the nature and extent of the terms; but as to the fact itself, of a compromise having taken place, it is acknowledged by Ministers.

ALEXANDRIA, December 24.

CONGRESS.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

WEDNESDAY, DECEMBER 18.

At half past eleven o'clock, Mr. Marshal rose, and announced, that authentic information had been received, of the death of our much beloved general Washington, and therefore moved an adjournment; which was agreed to.

LEGISLATURE OF VIRGINIA.

IN THE HOUSE OF DELEGATES,

WEDNESDAY, DECEMBER 18.

On motion of Mr. Madison, Resolved unanimously, That the members of this house, in token of their profound grief for the loss of their illustrious and beloved Fellow Citizen GEORGE WASHINGTON, will each wear a badge of mourning throughout the present session of the General Assembly.

CINCINNATI OF VIRGINIA.

At a meeting of the State Society of the Cincinnati of Virginia, convened in the city of Richmond, this 18th day of December, 1799, in consequence of the melancholy information received of the death of General GEORGE WASHINGTON, who, being no less esteemed and venerated for his great virtues and eminent talents as a statesman and fellow citizen, than he was justly beloved and admired for his courage and conduct as a brother soldier; and it being the wish of this meeting to manifest to the present and future times the sincerity with which they commemorate that courage and conduct, and those talents and virtues, as well as the deep affliction which they now feel for his loss;

Resolved unanimously, That this meeting will wear a black crape on the left arm for three months; and they cannot suppress their expectation that the same mark of sorrow and respect, will be shewn by every other member of the society in Virginia.

By order of the Society,
SAM. COLEMAN, Sec'ry.

KENTUCKY LEGISLATURE.

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES,

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 14.

The house according to the standing order of the day, resolved itself into a committee of the whole house on the state of the commonwealth, Mr. Desha in the chair: and after some time spent therein the speaker resumed the chair, and Mr. Desha reported that the committee had taken under consideration sundry resolutions passed by several state legislatures, on the subject of the alien and sedition laws, and had come to a resolution thereupon, which he delivered in at the clerk's table, where it was read and UNANIMOUSLY agreed to by the house as follows:—

The representatives of the good people of this commonwealth in general assembly convened, having maturely considered the answers of sundry states in the Union, to their resolutions passed at the last session, respecting certain unconstitutional laws of Congress, commonly called the alien and sedition laws, would be faithless indeed to themselves, and to those they represent were they silently to acquiesce in the principles and doctrines attempted to be maintained in all those answers, that of Virginia only excepted. To again enter the field of argument, and attempt more fully or forcibly to expose the unconstitutionality of those obnoxious laws, would, it is apprehended be as unnecessary as unavailing. We cannot, however, but lament, that if the discussion of those interesting subjects by sundry of the legislatures of our sister states, unfounded suggestions, and uncandid insinuations, derogatory of the true character and principles of the good people of this commonwealth, have been substituted in place of fair reasoning and sound argument. Our opinions on those alarming measures of the general government, together with our reasons for those opinions, were detailed with decency and with temper, and submitted to the discussion and judgement of our fellow citizens throughout the Union. Whether the like decency and temper have been observed in the answers of most of those states who have denied or attempted to obviate the great truths contained in those resolutions we have now only to submit to a candid world. Faithful to the true principles of the federal union, unconscious of any designs to disturb the harmony of that union, and anxious only to escape the fangs of despotism, the good people of this commonwealth are regardless of censure or calumination. Lest however the silence of this commonwealth should be construed into an acquiescence in the doctrines and principles advanced and attempted to be maintained by the said answers, or those of our fellow citizens throughout the Union, who so widely differ from us on those important subjects, should be deduced by the expectation, that we shall be deterred from what we conceive our duty, or shrink from the principles contained in those resolutions; therefore

Resolved, That this commonwealth considers the federal union, upon the terms and for the purposes specified in the late compact, as conducive to the liberty and happiness of the several states: That it does now unequivocally declare its attachment to the Union, and to that compact agreeable to its obvious and real intention, and will be among the last to seek its dissolution: That if those who administer the general government be permitted to transgress the limits fixed by that compact, by a total disregard to the special delegation of power therein contained, annihilation of the state governments and the erection upon the ruins, of a general consolidated government, will be the inevitable consequence: That the principle and construction contended for by sundry of the state legislatures, that the general government is the exclusive judge of the extent of the powers delegated to it, stop nothing short of despotism; since the discretion of those who administer the government, and not the constitution, would be the measure of their powers: That the several states who formed that instrument, being sovereign and independent, have the unquestionable right to judge of its infraction; and that a nullification, by those sovereignties, of all unauthorized acts done under color of that instrument, is the rightful remedy: That this commonwealth does upon the most deliberate consideration declare, that the said alien and sedition laws, are in their opinion, palpable violations of the said constitution; and however chearfully it may be disposed to surrender its opinion to a majority of its sister states in matter of ordinary or doubtful policy; yet, in momentous regulations like the present, which vitally wound the best rights of the citizen, it would consider a silent acquiescence as highly criminal: That although this commonwealth as a party to the federal compact, will bow to the laws of the Union, yet it does at the same time declare that it will not now, nor ever hereafter, cease to oppose in a constitutional manner, every attempt from what quarter soever offered, to violate that compact: AND FINALLY, in order that no pretext or arguments may be drawn from the supposed acquiescence on the part of this commonwealth in the constitutionality of those laws, and be thereby used as precedents for similar future violations of the federal compact; this commonwealth does now enter against them, its SOLEMN PROTEST.

HAVING regularly attended to the study of Physic, Surgery and Midwifery at the Colleges of Edinburg and Glasgow, and practised for a considerable number of years in Europe, and, respectfully informs the inhabitants of Alexandria and its vicinity, that he offers his services in his professional line. He flatters himself, from an unremitting attention to his patients, and the quality of his Medicine, to merit the esteem and confidence of the public.

King-Street, Alexandria, Oct. 31, 1799.

FOR SALE,

THE well improved DWELLING PLANTATION of the subscriber, lying on the head of Burdits creek, Durham parish, Charles county, Maryland.

It contains 760 acres land, nearly one half in wood the residue laid of in three shifts of corn, each of which fields has produced on an average, for 10 years past, upwards of 260 barrels annually; two highly manured shifts of tobacco, each sufficient for the employment of 10 or 12 good hands; an orchard and pasture.

The improvements are, a dwelling house 18 by 36 feet, with 2 rooms below and 2 above, 3 fire places, piazzas on the north and south sides, in one of which there is a lodging room; a kitchen 16 by 20 feet, with a dry cellar, and lodging rooms above for servants; a meat house, dairy, overseer's house, negro quarters, a large tobacco house, stables with stalls for 16 horses, hay lofts, 2 corn houses, carriage house, wheat room, &c. There is also a large kitchen garden, handsomely paled in with locust posts and white oak railing. About a quarter of a mile from the house there is a tub mill, with a pair of stones and a bolting cloth; near it a dwelling house for the miller. The mill has been finished within a few years, and has earned upwards of 240 barrels of corn in a year, besides finding the family in flour. The whole of the houses are built of the best of materials, by good workmen, and are almost new, consequently in good repair.

There was seeded in August, 30 bushels of wheat, which is now very promising; the rest of the field is intended to be sown with wheat and rye when the hands can be spared from the tobacco and fodder.

The situation is dry and healthy, every field abounds with good water; the soil is well adapted to the growth of tobacco, all kinds of grain, timothy and clover, and produces natural grass in abundance for a large stock.

The land runs about a mile and a half along the creek, and includes about 20 acres marsh, is distant from Nanjemoy warehouse on Potomac, 4 miles, and about 40 from the Federal City.

Any person inclinable to purchase, may view the land at pleasure. The terms of sale will be know by applying to the subscriber on the premises, or to Mr. Robert Fergusson, junr. Bowly's wharf, Baltimore, who is authorised to treat for this property. Possession may be had at Christmas, or sooner if required.

JOHN ROBERTSON,
Charles County.

October 7.

TO LET,

For one or more Years,

A FISHERY, at the mouth of Dogue Creek, well known by the name of Posey's Fishing-Landing. To say much on this subject would be unnecessary, as the property is generally known, and has commonly turned out to great account. The last year upwards of 500 barrels of herrings were cured at this landing, and not less than 110 barrels of shad; besides, very large quantities of shad and herrings were sold on the shore to country customers.

There are excellent accommodations on the premises for carrying on the Fishery, to a larger extent than has been done, as there are a strong log house of 20 feet by 16, for holding salt and cured fish; and this house is sheded all round, in which nearly 100 hhds. may be contained for the curing of the fish. Besides, there are a shed of considerable size, for the striking or first salting of the fish, and a house newly built, of 16 by 14, for the fishers to cook in, and another of 14 by 12, for an overseer to lodge in, and keep the accounts of the business. The tenant may also be accommodated with a seine and ropes, rigged and ready for fishing, a fishing boat, and about 30 or 40 hhds. to cure fish in; all upon reasonable terms.

Nothing would have induced Gen. Washington to have let such a valuable property, but the firm determination of simplifying and contracting his concerns.

Proposals may be made to the subscriber for the Fishery and the houses thereto appertaining, or for the fishery houses, and to purchase the seine, boat, and hogsheads, as may be most agreeable to the offerers. No offers will be received after the 12th of January, 1800, as any person wishing to rent the premises, will require time to make the necessary arrangements, and in six days thereafter, the offer which is most agreeable to Gen. Washington will be preferred, and made known to the offerer.

JOHN JANNEY.

Hillsborough, Sept. 30, 1799. eS.tf.

RAN AWAY, on the 25th ult. from the subscriber, living near Culpepper Court-House, a Negro Man, named JACK, about 30 years old, 5 feet 10 or 11 inches high, very muscular, full faced, wide nostrils, large eyes, a down look, speaks slowly, and wore his hair cued; had on when he eloped a white shirt, grey broadcloth coat, mixed cassimere waistcoat and breeches, a brown hat, faced underneath with green, and a pair of boots. He formerly belonged to Mr. Augustin Baughan, of Fredericksburg, now of Baltimore, and I am told was seen making for Alexandria, with an intention of taking the stage thither. He is artful, can both read and write, and is a good fiddler; it is therefore probable he may attempt a forgery, and pass for a freeman. He is most commonly known by the name of JACK TAYLOR, was originally from Essex county has a father living there, and it is said he has a wife, the property of Mrs. Dalrymple, of Dumfries. Whoever secures him in any gaol, so that I get him, shall have Ten Dollars Reward, and if taken above sixty and not more than one hundred miles distant, and brought home, shall receive Twelve Dollars, and for any greater distance, Fifteen Dollars, with all reasonable expenses borne. Masters of vessels and stage drivers are forewarned carrying him out of the state, under penalty of the law.
